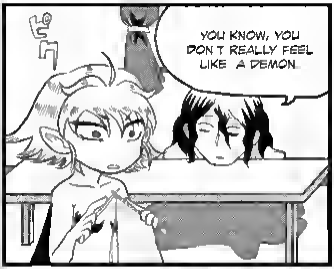
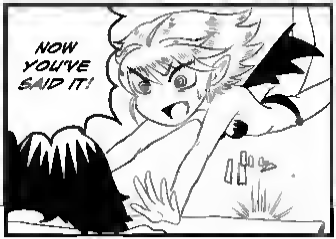
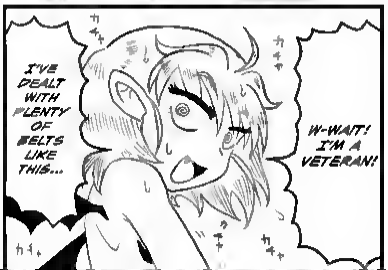
INNOCENT AT HEART







YOU CAN'T MAKE SOMETHING OUT OF NOTHING

TRANSLATION NOTES

The name of the male protagonist is literally depression-kun (yuuutsu-kun).

Page 3:
The title of the book the succubus is reading is actually a pun with the name of the male character, which also happens to be "depression". The book is titled "how to approach depression" but it uses a verb that often implies physical contact (cuddling, hugging, etc.), meaning it could also be interpreted as a book on how to get physically closer to our main character.

Page 8:
A teru teru bouzu is a small paper doll that's hung up in people's households in hopes of bringing in good weather.
They usually have a smiley face.

Slicing a goat's neck was an old ritual that was believed to bring in good weather as well.

"Osa" was the name given to the patriarch/head of the household in ancient times.
